FOREIGN GOSSIP.

Consent has applied to Victor Hugo for the erection of a new statue.

M. Alexandre Dumas is going to Spain on an entertainment of the Paris Zouaves during the stay of the latter detachment in Madrid.

Gen. Garibaldi will be present at the inauguration of the new statue of Dante at Florence.

The catalogue of the Meeting Association of Arts contained exhibits from 1,200 artists. More than sixteen hundred pictures were sent in, but only 1,200 could be hung.

Thackeray's favorite vegetable was Turkey asparagus. "I have seen," he says, "a man in a white cotton nightcap and dressing-gown walk down the middle of Pall Mall, and was told it was Professor Von Graefe, the greatest oculist in Europe."

The Pope has contributed a number of works of literature to the Vatican library, among which are the poems in Italian verse of his predecessor Pius IX., and the works of Clementine, Bishop of Ostia.

Father Hyacinthe's successful lectures in the Salle de Notre Dame de Nazareth, Paris, are to be the subject of a pamphlet written, from notes taken at the lectures, by the Abbé Lamazou, a Parisian priest, who has also published a pamphlet on the Council. Father Hyacinthe's lectures will be published in book form.

Prince Metternich, it is said, will soon be recalled from Paris, on account of the fact which has transpired that the Emperor Napoleon has consented that the Grand Duke Constantine should marry the Archduchess Marie Louise, daughter of the late Archduke Charles Ferdinand, and niece of the present Emperor of Austria.

Behelin the Second of Spain is writing her autobiography in the vicinity of a convent. One of the Paris correspondents says that the Queen intends to translate it into English on her visit to England next year. If this book is ready on the day of publication ought to be sent to the Tribune on account of its novelty and originality. "If it does not have to wait for the Queen's visit to England," says the correspondent, "it will be here done with the Americans."

At the performance of Belladini, in Dec., 1867, there was a speaking audience, and the applause was not always in the right places. The sounds produced by the hissing and very distinct to the house, which, though the very nature of the opera, and the words of the different modern languages used in it, are not calculated to excite much enthusiasm. With the exception of the last act, which is very fine, the opera is not a good one, the whole the evening seemed to be a great one.

The title of Prince Napoleon is "Son Altesse" (His Highness), and its meaning may be translated as "a safe guarantee for order."

"Do you know what the two letters 'N. B.' before the name of Prince Napoleon mean?" inquired a friend of the writer, "they signify 'Not Bonaparte.'"

"You are mistaken," replied the writer, "they signify 'Not Absent.'" (Un Espionnage).

Dentist, one of the most original and humorous of the Paris journals, has been suspended for three months for publishing a letter which it received from a subscriber, in which the writer complained that the paper had been discontinued by the postmaster of his village, and that he had been informed that the reason was that the paper had been suppressed by the Government. The editor of Dentist, in commenting upon the letter, said that the paper had been suppressed by the Government, and that the subscriber had been informed that the reason was that the paper had been suppressed by the Government. The editor of Dentist, in commenting upon the letter, said that the paper had been suppressed by the Government, and that the subscriber had been informed that the reason was that the paper had been suppressed by the Government.

The subscription for the monument of a Parisian lady, who was killed by the explosion of a gas-meter, which was opened by the deceased with a lighted candle, has reached the sum of 30,000 francs. The Paris Municipal Council has voted 10,000 francs, and the Emperor has given 5,000 francs. The remainder has been subscribed by various persons. The monument will be erected in the Père la Chaise Cemetery, and will consist of a marble statue of the deceased, with a lighted candle in her hand, and a gas-meter at her feet. The statue will be placed on a pedestal, on which will be inscribed the following words: "To the memory of Mme. Lefèvre, who died on the 10th of January, 1869, from the explosion of a gas-meter, which she had opened with a lighted candle."

Victor Hugo's grandson, Georges, is a pupil of the Lycée Charlemagne, Paris, and is very fond of his studies. He is a very good boy, and is very much liked by his schoolfellows. He is a very good boy, and is very much liked by his schoolfellows. He is a very good boy, and is very much liked by his schoolfellows.

AN AMERICAN

The Tribune.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1869.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

Quarrel has applied to Victor Hugo for the election of a new duke.

Lieutenant Bernard is going to Spain as correspondent of the London Times, and to accompany the army of Marshal Serrano.

Prince Napoleon remains in the Pyrenees, and is said to be in very poor health. He has not yet returned to Paris.

Professor von Closen, the eminent botanist, who was to have succeeded Alexander von Humboldt, is dead. He was a native of Bavaria.

The Duke of Montpensier has been in Spain for some time, and is now at Seville. He is said to be in favor of a Bourbon restoration.

The Count de Paris has published a work on the history of the Civil War in America, which has been translated into English.

Prince Metternich, it is said, will soon be recalled from Paris, on account of the dust which he raised there during the Exposition. It is understood that the dust last to be scattered by the Emperor Francis Joseph was crumpets.

The name of the Austrian Minister of Public Instruction, Herbst, is pronounced Autumn. Autumn is a very appropriate name for a minister of education, for it is the season when the schools begin.

Prince Napoleon, the son of Jerome, is the author of a pamphlet entitled "Napoleon and His Detractors," which is a defense of the Bonaparte family, and a vindication of the character of the first Napoleon.

The Duke of Aumale, who is now in England, is the author of a history of the Princes of Condé, which is highly spoken of. He is also the author of a history of the Constable de Bourbon, and of a work on the military institutions of France.

Lamartine has published a letter in which he says that he has not written a line of his history of the Girondists since the Revolution of 1848, and that he has no intention of ever finishing it. He is now writing his memoirs.

Victor Hugo's new book, "The Legend of Ages," is a collection of poems, and is said to be very fine. The first edition of 10,000 copies was sold in a few days, and a second edition of 5,000 copies is now in press.

Dumas, one of the most original and talented romancers of France, has for the last few years been in very poor health, and has been unable to do much work. He has been ordered to Switzerland by his physicians, and will soon leave Paris.

The Count de Chambord, the pretender to the French throne, is now living at Frohsdorf, in Austria. He is a grandson of Charles X., and was born in 1820. He is a Catholic, and is said to be very bigoted

SUEZ ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 6.

The inauguration took place yesterday at noon. The weather was favorable. Before noon all the vessels had arrived at Ismailia. Prince Humbert, the Empress Eugenie, Prince Napoleon, and the Austrian Archduke Charles Ferdinand, with their suites, arrived at Ismailia at 11 o'clock. The Empress Eugenie was received on board the Imperial yacht. The Viceroy received the Emperor and Empress at the station. The Empress Eugenie and the Viceroy then entered the same carriage. The Emperor Francis Joseph and Prince Humbert followed in the next carriage.
